I believe that this meeting will be an opportunity to address the tribal council about the issues that they raised to the Administrator. That part seems consistent with on-going consultation.

It also provides us an opportunity to check in with the tribe about where we stand on many of the technical issues. Key one that I see is – do we have enough data to proceed with an interim remedial action that will address the source area. EPA thinks we do. We would like to move forward with that while we also fill in the remaining pieces needed to complete the conceptual site model.

All: See below. Since we are meeting with the Tribal Council, I tend to see next week as a consultation about a technical choice. How do you prefer to frame the event?

Hi All- my understanding is that next week's meeting is not a consultation but a technical meeting? Please clarify. Thank you
